Bancroft W.I. July Meeting

Mrs. Alex Stewart was hostess to five members and one visitor for the July meeting of the Bancroft W.I. Meeting opened by singing 'There's a Love Knot in My Lariat' and repeating the creed. Due to the absence of the president, the vice-president, Mrs. L. C. Burnett, was in the chair.

Minutes of the June meeting were read and approved and the financial report was read and bills ordered paid.

Mrs. R. Fisher is in charge of selling the baby quilt, which was prepared for the handicraft display. Instead of giving books to the school last fall, prizes were awarded to the children who had the best social study books for the year. One dollar was given for first and 50 cents for second. Winners were as follows:

Grade 7 and 8 group: 1. Don Hauser; 2. Austin Fisher; grade 5 and 6 group: 1. Annie McCulloch; 2. Carl Swanson; grade 1 to 4 group: 1. Audrey Swanson; 2. Sylvia Good. Hot dogs, soft drinks and ice cream are to be sold at the ball games at Midway, except on July 17, proceeds to go to the Midway ball team.

Plans were made to have a square dance and pie social at Bancroft around the end of July. The lack of members present resulted in only two conveners being elected. Mrs. R. Fisher for handicraft and Mrs. H. Swanson for agriculture and Canadian industries. Mrs. Fred Hoskin gave a report on the Didsbury conference. Miss Jennie Stewart won the draw and 'God Save The Queen' was sung to close the meeting.

40th Reunion Held At Agric. School

'The best yet' was the enthusiastic phrase used by graduates attending the 40th anniversary reunion at O.S.A. on Friday, July 10. About 375 people, including former staff and students, present staff and friends, were favored with fine weather and found the lawns and flowers at their best, a new experience for those who had never seen the school in summer.

Special speaker was Dr. Harold Thornton of the University of Alberta, graduate of 1910. The professor outlined the progress of agriculture through the past 40 years. W. J. 'Pop' Elliott of Edmonton, first principal of O.S.A., enlarged on the activities of the school in the early years. O. S. Longman, provincial deputy minister of agriculture and former staff member, paid tribute to the late Hon. Duncan Marshall, former minister of agriculture and founder of Alberta's schools of agriculture. Mr. Longman stated that next to 'peace on earth and goodwill toward men' came food, clothing and shelter—the role of agriculture.

Mr. Frank Grisdale, second principal of O.S.A., compared the economics of agriculture of 1920 with that of today. R. M. Putnam, superintendent of schools of agriculture expressed the appreciation of his branch to the O.S.A. Alumni Association for arranging the anniversary program.

The day's program consisted of a livestock parade, machinery display, tours of plots and grounds, lectures for women by Miss McIntyre and Miss A. Kermalegue, display of school year books and pictures dating from 1913 to 1953, a ball game, buffet luncheon and an evening dance.

SHOWERS FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

A few close friends and a host of relatives met at the home of Mr. Charles Brown on a recent Sunday afternoon to honor Miss Marjorie Goetjen and Mr. Lyle Johnson of Edmonton, who will be married shortly.

The afternoon was spent in visiting and introducing the prospective groom to Marjorie's friends and relatives. The gifts were then opened by the happy couple, with Marjorie's cousin, Miss Marjorie Papke of Big Prairie assisting. The task completed, the honored couple thanked everyone present for the lovely gifts, and especially Mr. Brown and Mrs. Sanderson for making it all possible.

Later a buffet supper was served to about 40 guests, who came from many different points in Alberta.

A miscellaneous shower was held recently in honor of Miss Marjorie Goetjen at the home of Mr. Fred Metz, with Mrs. Edna Dowell as hostess. Games and contests were played and Mrs. H. Goetjen favored the company with several solos.

Misses Karen and Sandra Brander played piano solos. A mock wedding caused a great deal of laughter. The gifts were brought in by the little Brander girls on a miniature drilling rig.

After the many lovely gifts were opened Marjorie thanked everyone and the afternoon concluded with a delicious luncheon.

Miss Goetjen also was presented with a gift of six silver teaspoons by her Burnside school pupils.

Mr. Tom Morris and his three sons returned last weekend after participating in the first bonspiel held in conjunction with the Calgary Stampede. In one game they went into an extra end before bowing to the well known curler, Bobby Alexander of Calgary.

The Morris had two left-handers and two right-handers, and Carl Morris was the youngest curler in the spiel. They state they never expect to meet better sportmanship or have a better time than they experienced last week. Royal Romance Causes Comment

TORONTO—Rev. Cecil Swanson, formerly of Calgary, said Sunday that Lord Beaverbrook should keep his dirty hands off the sweet life of Princess Margaret.

Dr. Swanson, former dean of New Westminster, B.C., in his morning sermon at St. Paul's Anglican church, charged the Canadian-born British publisher with 'unworthy nagging of the so-called romance of Princess Margaret.'

He said Lord Beaverbrook and his Daily Express of London 'should be dropped in a deep, dark hole.'

'The publicity being given this alleged romance is sickening,' he said later in an interview that Lord Beaverbrook has no conception of the sanctity of marriage. He had followed the same course with the romance of the Duke of Windsor when he was Edward VIII. He could have sold the throne of Britain for an extra 1,000 circulation.'

Dr. Swanson, 63, was born in England and came to Canada in 1908 from London. He has been in parishes in the Yukon, Alberta and British Columbia. As dean of New Westminster he was an advocate of less strict liquor laws and was named to the three-man commission studying laws in the province. He became rector of the Toronto church about two months ago.

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware have the holdings and the well will be known as Seaboard-Hudson Bay-Sunmyslope, No. 7-11. Activity in oil exploration is increasing throughout the district and several seismograph crews have been in the area for the past couple of weeks.

Early Tuesday the report was that the crew was drilling at 1550 feet.

The Morris had two left-handers and two right-handers, and Carl Morris was the youngest curler in the spiel. They state they never expect to meet better sportmanship or have a better time than they experienced last week. Tom also made the remark that he doubts if he will ever hold a broom for a better rink.

Hogs May Only Have Sniffles

The 348 hogs quarantined at New Westminster may have nothing worse than the sniffles. Dr. F. W. B. Smith, chief federal health officer, said federal health officials are not sure of no confirmation of the suspected vesicular exanthema has been found on the hogs. He said the report from the central laboratory at Hull, Que., where tissue was sent for diagnosis, is also inconclusive.

Dr. Smith said pigs with sniffles or shipping fever as the trade calls it, are common at this time of year.

The hogs shipped from Edmonton, were refused entry to the U.S. last week and a regional embargo was ordered.

P.M. Advocates Canada Gas Line

Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday night pledged the Liberal government to back development of an all-Canadian pipe line to give Eastern Canada centres the benefit of Alberta's cheap natural gas. The prime minister touched on his government's pipe line policy as he continued to hammer away at his main West vote-getting argument: Western Canada should vote Liberal because only the Liberal government has sufficient country-wide support to provide strong, stable government to speed Canada's economic development.

The alternative for Canada, he said at a Liberal rally, would be a coalition government made up of opposition parties with different and contradictory philosophies, too weak to provide the administrative strength needed in Ottawa.

That kind of government could not help being a government of stagnation or of reckless and contradictory expedients.

Certainly a government of that kind, said Mr. St. Laurent, would not be in a position to do much for a country which is expanding as Canada is.

Farm cash income for first quarter of this year was 5 per cent below same period last year but up to 10 per cent over first quarter of 1951. Smaller wheat payments and lower returns from sales of some produce more than offset a sizeable increase from wheat, moderate increases from barley, dairy products and cattle. Alberta showed a small gain.

DODGE and DESOTO DEALERS

Through The Study Window

(Rev. C. C. Armstrong)

This will be my last article for several weeks, as I will be away on holidays. During that time, amongst other events, the elections take place, but we expect that we will not be able to vote. This is unfortunate for us and for those others who will also be away from their own poll. However, any date imposes certain difficulties for somebody so we ought not to complain too much on that score.

There are several schools of thought in regard to the relationship of Christianity and politics. Some hold that there should be no mixing of religion and politics — especially if the politics happens to be different from one's own. Others have declared that Christian conviction will inevitably lead them into accepting a particular political party — and they find it difficult to understand why all Christians don't support their party. Both views seem to generate as much heat as light — or at least they did back about 1920.

Our politico-religious philosophy is that there should be a separation of church and state. This means, practically speaking, that the church should make no attempt, in the name of Christianity, to compel people to accept a particular political party as the Christian one. It recognizes that sincere Christian people may have widely divergent views on political issues. It repudiates state support for religious institutions, in order that the church may be under no obligation to the existing political authorities. Nor should the church seek political support for the furtherance of its work done in the name of Christ.

Yet this separateness of church and state does not mean that we can be indifferent to political realities. The problems and issues mentioned by the politicians are mullied over by the same people who gather together in their church. The church has the right and the obligation to help its people to formulate their own opinions.

E. F. Scott, writing on Christian ethics, has a reminder for us concerning this. "It is indeed one of the first of Christian duties to build up a social order in which the demands of Jesus will be more capable of fulfillment, but he has prescribed for us no definite plan which we must follow. His one concern was with the great moral and spiritual interests, and the organization which he approves is that which will secure them best, under the given requirements of our own land and time."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science churches on Sunday the Lesson-Sermon is titled "Life" and the Golden Text is from John: "As the Father hath Life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself" (5: 26). It also contains this uplifting statement by Jesus: "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." (John 10: 10). And this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus taught the way of Life by demonstration, that we may understand how this divine principle heals the sick, casts out error and triumphs over death." (25: 13-16).

Daily Dusting

Years of medical research sponsored by the Ontario Mining Association may have found the answer to silicosis, the disease which attacks the lungs of miners exposed to silica dust. Curiously enough, the treatment consists of breathing very fine aluminum dust directly into the lungs: the aluminum renders the silica particles harmless. The treatment has been adopted in gold and other mining areas in Canada and throughout the world.

Aluminum, long used in hospital kitchens, today serves the medical profession in many ways — from aluminum foil for covering serious burns, to aluminum acetate for medical dressings, to aluminum blenders for the preparation of sterile biological products. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

Agricultural SERVICE BOARD NOTES

W.K. Snyder
Field Supervisor

Spray Those Weeds: Now is the time to watch those field crops for weeds and make preparations for spraying. Generally cereal crops are safe to spray when they have attained eight inches in height, in the case of oats, 10 inches. Stretch the longest leaves up to measure the height rather than to measure the plants as they stand.

Susceptible weeds may be removed from wheat and barley after the crops have reached the 6" stage and from then on until early boot stage. Oats and flax are more susceptible to 2,4-D and MCP than other cereal crops. Oats are particularly sensitive from emergence to the early boot stage.

If the 2,4-D amine or MCP is used, oats may be safely sprayed at the 3-6 leaf stage, or later from the early boot blade stage to the early boot stage. If the 2,4-D ester is used, spraying is only safe from early boot blade to early boot stage.

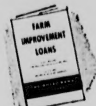

The later stage is often better since more weeds will have germinated by that time and thistles will be more advanced to or near the bud stage, which is the best time to spray thistles. If the 2,4-D ester is used, spraying is only safe from 3-4 leaves as weed growth warrants. Do not treat flax in the early bud stage.

A new product, MCP, is on the market for the first time in 1953. This product is kinder to sensitive crops and can be applied at slightly higher rates than 2,4-D on crops such as oats and flax.

"A loan from the bank saved my barn!"

"I HAD a big investment in my farm and I had to protect it. For one thing the barn needed a lot of fixing. I actually saved money by repairing the barn right away."

CANADA PREPARES TO DEAL WITH DISASTER

WOMEN'S ROLE IN CIVIL DEFENCE

Women will share all the perils of incidents which may arise in the event of an attack on Canada, declare civil defence experts. They will have a part equally as important as that to be played by men in measures to deal with disaster and, in the aftermath of attack, may be even more essential to restorative services.

As Canada plans to cope with calamity, in whatever shape it may come, the call has already gone out to women with special training in such fields as first aid, welfare and home nursing to join services being organized for emergency action. Retired nurses are urgently needed to help build up the health and medical services which, authorities know, will be bulwarks of civil defence organization everywhere.

Women will also be needed in communications, transport and other civil defence services in far greater numbers than ever before and, because of their intimate knowledge of their own neighborhoods, will make ideal wardens, with responsibility for leadership in forming and guiding self-help parties before, during and after incidents.

Since the individual home will undoubtedly be involved in any war which may come, the nation's hope and trust is pinned on the housewife in every section of the country. In many cases, she will be the only adult in a position to look to the welfare of children and the safety of the home, since men not actually in the fighting forces will be away, holding the production front or doing their bit in such services as those mobilized for heavy rescue, fire-fighting, auxiliary work, debris clearance, etc.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES
Civil defence officials urge all Canadian women who do not expect to be able to join the various services of organized civil defence, to at least prepare for emergency at home. For instance, every household should have on hand a plentiful supply of blankets, sheets, towels, etc., readily available. Children should be taught to wear long sleeves and to keep their skin covered as much as possible, when there is danger of A-bomb attack. Household first-aid kits, of course, should always be well stocked and the woman of the house might see to it that there are on hand such things as hammer, nails, thumb-tacks, etc., which may be needed for putting up curtains, nailing blankets over windows and doors.

Some other hints for housewives to be found in the government's manual "Personal Protection Under Atomic Attack" include: keep as much food and drink as you can in airtight containers in the refrigerator to protect it against contamination; after an underwater or ground A-bomb burst, destroy all unpackaged food which may have been exposed to radioactive dust or moisture; wash thoroughly all containers so exposed and don't use their contents unless you are sure they were airtight; keep water stored in airtight bottles or jars in your home shelter.

USE OF FACILITIES

If more water is needed than has been stored, officials say that if water is still running from the taps it may be safe to use it for a short time after an attack, because it would take some time for radioactive materials to penetrate to it, but piped water should not be used freely until health authorities officially approve it. This is because at times of disruption of service, typhoid and other diseases could spread through a town's water supply.

People and clothing, as well as supplies, are liable to contamination, under modern air attack conditions so, as soon as sufficient water is available, the woman at home should make everyone wash or bathe thoroughly and change clothes. Clean clothing kept where it would not be liable to contamination, should be put on and the possibly dangerous garments either thoroughly washed or destroyed altogether. In washing, special attention should be given to one's hair, fingernails and folds of the skin, where radioactive dust could lurk.

Civil Defence authorities see Canadian women rising to the occasion in any major disaster which may strike their communities. They look for their help in all the civil defence services, standing shoulder to shoulder with their menfolk and most of all, keeping up morale and fighting the fight for survival on the family front as only women know how.

Westcott W.I.
Hold July Meeting

Mrs. O. Faas was hostess to 22 members and four visitors for the July meeting of the Westcott W.I. Roll call was answered by every one, giving a "Good Health Hint."

The secretary reported that $95.50 has now been collected for the cancer fund. Mrs. G. Ford gave her delegate's report of the local W.I. conference.

Two songs were sung: "In The Good Old Summertime" and "When It's Springtime in the Rockies."

A very interesting letter from the corresponding institute in England was read by Mrs. O. Faas. The Health magazine was again subscribed for.

Mrs. O. Faas was chosen as delegate for the Farm Women's Week in Olds.

The delegate report on the provincial W.I. conference, which was held in Edmonton, was given by the president, Mrs. Cliff Eckstrand.

The five-minute talk, "Quilts Made From Feathers," was given by Mrs. R. Benson. Mrs. W. Owens gave a summary of the current events.

A lovely chenille bedspread and a pair of pillow cases were presented to a July bride-elect, Miss Marjorie Goellen, from the W.I. members. Marjorie thanked all those present.

Mrs. O. Faas displayed an old antique which was brought from Russia in 1910, called a Sonabarr. In those days it was used for heating water for tea.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Van Wyck instead of Mrs. R. Benson's.

NO FLEAS, PLEASE!
There's a spray attachment with insecticide cartridge easily fixed to the end of an ordinary garden hose. When water passes through the attachment it dissolves insecticide, which passes out as a fine spray covering from three to 25 feet. Varying kinds of insecticide cartridges available, including one for washing the dog.

MARKETING COMPLICATIONS

Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, said last week that it is not possible for Canada to enter into a new International Wheat Agreement without considering the United States' desires. The U.S. is supplying most of the money to European countries which buy Canadian wheat, the minister states. He also said that the U.S. wants a $2.05 I.W.A. price.

DISTRICT NEWS

New Provincial Regulations For The Control Of Communicable Diseases

In view of the fact that new Provincial Regulations under the Public Health Act are now in force for the Control of communicable diseases, it is felt that a few points should be summarized for the information of the public.

Details of the more commonly met infectious diseases are listed below:

Scarlet Fever (scarlatina) and Strepococcal sore throat: isolation period (a) 7 days if under treatment by a doctor who also declares freedom from infection; (b) 21 days if not under medical care. All cases must be isolated until clinical recovery and free from discharges. Quarantine of contacts: If under 18 years and living in same house, same quarantine as isolation of case; if under 18 years exclusion from occupations involving children or food handling. Other contacts over 18 years, no quarantine. Notification, yes.

Chickenpox: isolation period, until 7 days after the appearance of the rash; quarantine of contacts, none. Notification, no.

Measles (red): isolation, 10 days; quarantine of contacts, 14 days; notification, yes.

Mumps: until all swelling has subsided; quarantine of contacts, none; notification, no.

Whooping Cough: isolation, 21 days from onset of cough; quarantine of contacts, for 10 days after last exposure to case; notification, yes.

Pollomyelitis: isolation, 14 days; quarantine of contacts, 14 days of all intimate contacts, including exclusion from occupations involving children or food handling; notification, yes.

Where a condition is labeled as notifiable, the notification should be made to the local health authority, which means, in those districts served by a health unit, the health unit.

In this connection it is as well to quote from the regulations: "Whenever a householder ascertains or has reason to suspect that a person within his family or household is infected with one of the diseases shown in the regulations, he shall at once send notice to this effect to the local health authority of the district in which the case occurs."

It is also the responsibility of the attending physician to inform the householder and notify the local health authorities of any case, or suspected case of communicable disease.

Finally it should be made clear that the diseases listed above are not a complete list of all the conditions covered by the regulations but only the more common ones. In any case of doubt as to procedure, or for more information, enquiries should be made to the health unit.

As soon as printed copies or excerpts are made available by the provincial department of public health they will be distributed as widely as possible.
